

A Conversation with Nan

ME

Nan, are you afraid of death?

NAN

Nooo... Why should one be afraid of it?

ME

Because you never know what it feels like,
is it lonely or does it hurt etc.?

NAN

It doesn't hurt and afterwards you get into Heaven.

ME

Mmm... Do you believe in God?

NAN

Yes.

ME

What about in Jesus?

NAN

No, not in Jesus but I do believe in God.

ME

Do you believe that after death you'll get to see all your loved ones again?

NAN

Ahahahah, nouu. You don't see them anymore because after you die there's nothing left, you're just decaying in the ground you see.

Okey, well what about if you got the chance to go back to your childhood and start your life again, would you do it?

NAN

I can't be bothered to start life again. I've seen it already.. but on the other hand, it would be nice to be able to visit there again, so that I could go skiing and see my girlfriends once more.

Okey, well what about if you had the chance to exchange yourself, your consciousness, into a younger body that wouldn't age, would you do it?

NAN

Umm..I don't really understand this.. Everyone has their time and my time will come as well.
